

socket/header type connectors give lowest stack spacing (0.554mm) as each successive cable need not go up and over the previous connector

